■ Teaching Experience /Presentations

2012 Archetype and Instinct. The archetype is a psychosomatic concept, linking body and spirit, action and thought. Without the whole spectrum we cannot reach the level of wholeness required to be fully alive; the necessary coniunctio of spirit and matter never comes into being. Nucleo Portugues de Estudos Jungianos, Lisbon, Portugal.

2012 Archetype and Instinct Embodied. An experiential seminar and workshop accompanying the theoretical lecture. Nucleo Portugues de Estudos Jungianos, Lisbon, Portugal.

2012 Archetype and Instinct. The archetype is a psychosomatic concept, linking body and spirit, action and thought. Without the whole spectrum we cannot reach the level of wholeness required to be fully alive; the necessary coniunctio of spirit and matter never comes into being. C. G. Jung Institute, Zurich, Switzerland.

2012 Archetype and Instinct Embodied. An experiential seminar and workshop accompanying the theoretical lecture. C. G. Jung Institute, Zurich, Switzerland.

2011 Anatomy of the Archetype. The archetype is a psychosomatic concept, linking body and spirit, action and thought. Without the whole spectrum we cannot reach the level of wholeness required to be fully alive; the necessary coniunctio of spirit and matter never comes into being. International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP). Zurich, Switzerland.

2011 Anatomy of the Archetype Embodied (Experiential workshop for the above lecture). Embodying dreams images through movement to experience the unity of psyche and soma, spirit and matter. International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP). Zurich, Switzerland.

2010 Mysteries of the Holy Spirit on the Mid-Atlantic Ridge and the Azorean Archipelago: Keeping the Tradition of the Holy Spirit Alive. The Azores, the Mid-Atlantic Ridge and deep-sea hydrothermal vents embody the anima mundi as events in time and space. The particular spiritus loci of the Azorean Archipelago and the Mid-Atlantic Ridge may include the seeds of new life from depths of both ocean and psyche. The Azorean tradition of keeping the Cult of the Holy Spirit alive may signal the recognition and return of the divine feminine as co-creatix; the return of respect for the common good; and the honoring of all life. International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP). Zurich, Switzerland.

2009 Lusitania: Land of Longing and Lament. A lecture on the spiritual significance of longing and the necessity of lament as seen within the spiritus loci of Portugal and its cultural expressions. Please see this Lusitania site page (<http://www.cedrusmonte.org/lusitania/index.html>) for more complete information. Also very helpful is the Downloads page (<http://www.cedrusmonte.org/lusitania/downloads.html>) with reference papers and other related material. International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP). Zurich, Switzerland.

2009 The Body, Transference and Individuation. A lecture on the body and movement in Jungian analysis. For related writing, please see Numen of the Flesh (http://www.cedrusmonte.org/numen.html#numen_full). The second related paper, The Body and Movement in Analysis, will be available at the end of 2009 in Murray Stein's anthology, Jungian Psychoanalysis. International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP). Zurich, Switzerland.

2008 Images of the Soul: Image-making as a Sacred Act. A non-interpretive view of images and their making. A four hour lecture on the nature of images and the imaginal realm from a Jungian perspective. International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP). Zurich, Switzerland.
